

WOODEN HOMES CITY - BEACH – COUNTRYSIDE PONDEROSA MODELS

The lumber we use guarantee thermal, acoustic comfort, durability and protection for our homes. The way we build is based on traditional carpentry techniques, so buildings must be strong and highly secure.

The woods used are noble, and always in solid form. The fitting system, without the use of staples or nails, guarantees total sealing, in addition to structural security and strength, also guaranteed by the thickness of the solid wood planks that make up the walls: (4.5 cm or 3.5 cm thick) or the use of double wall, which was developed essentially for the northern European countries, in a total of 10 cm.

The geometric design of our components has been studied in order to guarantee quality, durability and the best performance throughout the life of the house.

The use of male / female fittings has been changed in order to obtain a wall that is about 50% more solid than some similar constructions.

The greater depth of the fittings, although requiring a greater amount of wood, makes the joints, in addition to being more resistant, more watertight, thus eliminating the appearance of cracks, warps or kinks that could compromise the house.

The solid wall construction system using Brazilian hardwood has the following advantages over traditional construction:

1. Construction speed.
2. Controlled costs.
3. Use of noble wood, providing comfort and natural beauty
4. Seismic resistance.
5. Low cost of air conditioning.
6. Low cost of exterior maintenance.
7. Longer construction life.

The comfort and quality of life provided by a wooden house result from the various benefits that this type of structure has:
